Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 08 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Largely dry with sunny spells, patchy drizzle in northern areas.

Today:
Any lingering fog gradually clearing, giving a largely dry and fine day, with sunny spells. The north of the region is likely to see some patchy drizzle, primarily through the morning. Feeling warm, though breezier in northern areas. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
This evening there will be some cloud around, although it will be dry and the cloud will tend to break to give more in the way of clear periods overnight. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Wednesday:
Largely dry during the morning with some sunny spells. Cloud increasing from the west into the afternoon bringing occasional patches of light rain. Breezy, but feeling warm in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Sunny spells and outbreaks of rain on Thursday and Friday, though drier in southern areas. More settled on Saturday, but feeling cooler than recently. Some coastal and hill fog possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.